WAGES ON FARMS IN ILLINOIS.
The farm hand problem is an interesting one in Illinois. A report published by the state board of agriculture lished by the state board of agriculture shows the average wages paid in each country for the season of 1905. In the northern division of the state the average wages paid per month are, with board, $25 without board, $31. In two counties—Henry and Lasalte—the average wages are $27 with board, and $37 without board. In Carroll country the figures are $26 and $37, showing the difference of $11 per month on account of beard.

In the central division the reages are In the central division the wages are

In only eight of the counties supply of laborers equal to the mand. Strange enough, Saline with wages at $13 and $20 is the eight. Carroll county with wages, $25 and $37, has only ecent of the hands she needs.
